OUR CHRISTMAS HERITAGE

The Christmas season always bring back the sweetest memories of youth to those who enjoyed the fantasy and sparkle of the Santa Claus story. In addition, it brings a more significant observance, a respect for the Christian principles of life, which are too often forgotten in the rush ing, and the emptying of stockings, more than the children, are mothers

The real Christmas spirit is one of unselfishness and giving. Thus, the people who enjoy the scene around the Christmas tree, on Christmas morning, and the emptying of stockings, more than the children, are the mothers and fathers who water this exciting moment once a year.

As Christmas Day, 1959 approaches, the time seems highly appropriate for a new dedication to the principles of Christianity. The United States, of all the countries in the history of the world, today enjoys more blessings and more of the good things of life than any other nation. Yet, we live in troubled times, when super weapons threaten to devastate larger areas of the world in an instant.

As a nation, we must trust and pray that we'll survive the modern crisis as we have those in the past, and there is every reason to believe that we will. Meanwhile, we pause briefly to observe and enjoy the Christmas holiday season, and as we do so, it is well to remember the contributions of all in the spirit of true brotherhood and to once again resolve that there will, some day, somehow, be peace on earth and goodwill among all men.

It is remarkable how 'uneasy' people become over public proposals that affect their pocketbooks.

People who hold public office sometimes forget that they are supposed to represent all of the people and no just a few.
